5

We continue to emphasize grammar and diagramming in fifth grade, but students move, at this point, from spelling to vocabulary. By the second or third year of using the Note-Taking Guide and Book Report Form, students are able to write reports they never imagined possible. They continue to read children's literature but by the end of the year make a transition to the unabridged Robinson Crusade.

The Macaulay book City is integrated into the Day-by-Day with the study of Ancient Rome. The Covenant Home History Overlay is essential to those who desire a serious study of history. It provides the background and biblical perspective that is often missing from texts.

Fractions, decimals, ratios and percents are dealt with in math, and aquatic creatures are explored in science. Fifth grade studies the second half of the Old Testament in Bible. As always, the Day-by-Day is there as a planning tool for the parent, but at this level it can also be a little back-up support when enthusiasm wanes or resistance surfaces.
